ColumbiaSoft achieves 11-year anniversary in Microsoft partner network

"Gold" level status represents Top 1% of businesses in Microsoft partner network.

Portland, Ore. – March 13, 2014 – ColumbiaSoft, a leading provider of Microsoft Windows-based document management software, announced today that it has reached its 11th year in working with Microsoft as a member of their partner network. The company achieved Gold level status in Application Development, a status distinguished by the top 1% in the Microsoft's ecosystem.

"Our important partnership enables us to be on the leading edge with Microsoft-embedded solutions," said ColumbiaSoft CEO Richard Day. "We will continue leveraging our close connection into the future as new technologies like Azure, Office 365, tablet computing, and more play a greater role in how people go about their work."

ColumbiaSoft's association with Microsoft has bolstered the development of document control solutions that are built into Windows Explorer and Microsoft Office applications. The solutions are designed to help companies do everything from automate invoice routing and approvals, to manage regulated content for quality and compliance programs. The company's document management platform, Document Locator, encompasses advanced capabilities for version control, workflow, change control, collaboration, and more.

ColumbiaSoft is a Gold Application Development partner in the Microsoft Partner Network. In addition, ColumbiaSoft is also a Microsoft Independent Software Vendor Reseller (ISVr), authorized to sell Microsoft software to its clients.
